KABO HIGH BUST CORSET !

THE MOST PERFECT

Dress Form Corset

Ever Produced.

LADIES' slender figure will find in this corset something they have long desired. It makes a perfect form, and meets the approval of dressmakers, in that it facilitates the fitting of dresses, doing away as it does with all bosom padding. It lengthens the waist. It has cord loops in place of brass eyelets to lace, thus obviating all danger of the corset laces showing through the dress and making it impossible to soil the underclothing from corrosion of the eyelits.

BLAND'S AMENDMETS

Voted Down in Regular Order and Speedily.

The Wilson Repeal Bill of the Sherman Law Was Passed by the House—Vote, Yeas 240, Nays 109.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 28.—What the majorities against the free coinage men will be on the several ratios on the six Bland substitutes and then on the final passage of the Wilson bill, no one is prepared to say with accuracy this morning. The silver men themselves admit that their opponents will have a majority of thirty. The poll kept by the anti-silver committee, on which only the men about whom there is no doubt whatever, have been counted, shows that there will be a majority of thirty five against the strongest of the Bland provisions. The most conservative financiers in favor of the Wilson bill say it will run from forty-five to sixty.

It was believed at one time that the provisions for free coinage at the 20 to 1 ratio would attract the most votes, but Secretary Carlisle's letter on that subject to Senator Voorhees and Senator Hill's exposition of the folly of attempting to induce European countries to adopt an increased ratio and incur the tremendous expense of recoinage have weakened the arguments for an increased ratio a great deal. In fact, no one has talked increased ratio in the house to any extent since Mr. Carlisle's letter. It is now believed Mr. Bland and his followers will show their greatest strength on their first proposition, that of free coinage at 16 to 1.

Forty minutes is the period generally allowed for a roll call in the house. This is about the average length of time consumed in the operation. Recapitulating one roll and making preparations for another will probably occupy nearly twenty minutes more, so that an hour may safely be allowed for each of the seven votes to be taken today. As the house does not meet till noon, therefore, the final result will not be reached until 7 p. m. at the earliest.

The votes are to be taken first on the different ratios, 16 to 1, 17 to 1, 18 to 1, 19 to 1 and 20 to 1, as amendments to the Wilson repeal bill. Then upon substituting the Bland-Allison limited silver coinage act for the Sherman silver purchasing act. Then, when all these propositions have been elected, the vote will be on the adoption of the Wilson bill without amendment for the unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act requiring the monthly purchase by the United States of 4,500,000 ounces of fine silver.

THE HOUSE CONVENES.

Under the impression that the order under which the house has been operating the past two weeks, so far as the hour of meeting was concerned, prevailed today, the public galleries of the hall of the house of representatives were filled before 10 o'clock this morning and many members were in their seats on the floor at that hour. The surrounding corridors and lobbies of the floor were also filled with a throng of people curious to know the outcome of the oratorical contest which has been going on within the chamber for fourteen days.

The practical outcome of the votes to be taken was conceded on all hands to be the defeat of every proposition relating to the free coinage of silver at any ratio with gold and also of the resolution reviving the Bland-Allison act of 1878. This much was freely admitted by Representative Bland, the leader of the silver forces.

Chaplain Harridy prayed breifly and very inaudible for an especial gift of wisdom and judgment to tightly settle the great question before the house.

After the reading of the journal Mr. Weaver, of New York, appeared at the bar of the house in behalf of his colleague, General Tracy, and was sworn in by the speaker.

The resolution contained in the order of procedure on the silver question was reported by the clerk, providing for a vote first upon the free coinage of silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1.

Representative Baily, of Texas, asked if in the event of all the amendments included in the order being defeated, it would be in order to propose an additional amendment germane to the subject.

Speaker Crisp replied that as at present advised he would answer no; that the order provides exhaustively all that the house may consider, but that when the time came to formally present the question the gentleman from Texas might be heard.

Representative McMillan, of Tennessee, desired to offer an amendment providing for the free coinage of the product of the silver mines of the United States, but Mr. Bland objected even to have it read, saying that such a proposition was not free coinage at all.

The roll call was then called upon the amendment to the Wilson bill providing for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. It resulted: Yeas, 125, nays, 225. Messrs. Shell and Graham were paired, the former in favor of free coinage.

The 17 to 1 amendment was defeated. Yeas, 100; nays, 240.

The 18 to 1 free coinage amendment was rejected. Yeas, 102, nays, 239.

The 19 to 1 amendment was rejected. Yeas, 103; nays, 237.

The 20 to 1 amendment was likewise rejected—yeas, 122, nays, 222.

The amendment to reenact the Bland Allison act was defeated. Yeas, 136, nays, 213.

3:21 p. m.—The Wilson bill has passed —240 to 109.

TWO RIOTS!

Spaniards Mad Because a Bull Fight Did Not Occur.

Smashed Things Generally—Soldiers Fire on a Riotous Mob at a Spanish Watering Place.

MADRID, Aug. 28.—The old city of Saragossa, capital of the province of that name, was the scene yesterday of a serious riot growing out of the dissatisfaction of the spectators at a bull fight with the character of the performance.

A bull that had been driven into the ring refused, despite the efforts of the banderilleros, to display spirit enough to make the fight interesting. The spectators demanded that another bull be furnished as a victim for the toros, but the manager of the ring refused to replace the spiritless animal.

The crowd arose in mass, smashed the seats, tore the doors from their hangings, and set fire to the material which they had piled in the bull ring. The fire was extinguished by the bull ring attendants, and the mob then began to riot outside the bull ring. The police attempted to disperse them and were greeted with a volley of stones. It was not until reinforcements arrived at the scene of the trouble that the rioters were dispersed. Much difficulty was met with in driving the mob off, and many of the rioters were wounded by the police who had to use their swords to restore order.

There was also a riot last evening at San Sebastain, the well known Spanish watering place in the province of Guipuscoa. A concert was being given in the principal promenade. The audience, most of them Basques, Guipuscoa being one of the Basque provinces, demanded that the band play the Basque hymn. The leader of the musicians refused. The mob hooted the players and then assaulted them. The police and some of the audience defended the musicians and a furious riot resulted.

The rioters were driven from the vicinity of the band stand, but they proceeded in a body to the hotel where Senor Sagasta, the prime minister, is stopping, and amused themselves by stoning the building. The police were unable to handle the mob and troops were summoned to aid them.

When the soldiers appeared they were stoned by the mob, and many of them were cut and bruised by the missiles. An order was given for the troops to fire with ball cartridges into the now frenzied rioters. The order was promptly obeyed, and two of the rioters fell dead, while several of them were seriously wounded. The prompt action of the troops had the desired effect, and the mob quickly dispersed. Throughout the night, however, a close watch was kept to guard against a recurrence of the trouble.

PRINCE BISMARCK.

The Old German Hero Honored by the Populace.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—A thousands persons from Frankfort on the Maine, journeyed to Kissingen yesterday for the purpose of paying their respects to Prince Bismarck, who is sojourning at Kissengen. This is the third important deputation that has visited the ex chancellor during his visit at the Bavarian watering place.

In reply to an address presented to him by his visitors, Prince Bismarck said he was rejoiced that the old Frankfort Budestag had not been revived. Referring to the comment upon his speech last Sunday to the deputation from Thurginna, Prince Bismarck protested against being stigmatized as a particularist. In his remark to the Thurginians he had simply advised that the diets of the federal states carefully watch the doings of the federal council, because that body was wrecking the doors. Prince Bismarck complains that rheumatism is again troubling him.

BREAD PARADE.

Unemployed Workmen at Philadelphia Will Have One.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Emma Goldman addressed a meeting of unemployed workingmen Saturday, which was chiefly attended by the foreign element of the city. After adopting fiery resolutions the meeting adjourned to met at the city hall Wednesday evening and indulge in a bread parade. The police yesterday dispersed a meeting of workingmen at which the anarchists had caused considerable disorder in attempting to control.

WHEN AND WHERE.

Chicago's Mayor Will be Wedded to Miss Howard.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28.—Frank T. Howard, brother of Miss Annie Howard, has announced that the marriage of Miss Howard to Mayor Carter H. Harrison, of Chicago, will take place in the latter part of September at the summer home of the Howards at Biloxi, the watering place of the gulf coast in the southern part of Mississippi.

AREONAUT INJURED.

Attempted to Make an Ascension During a Heavy Wind.

PEORIA, Ills., Aug. 28.—Micheal Riordan, an areonaut, met with a possibly fatal accident yesterday evening. He made an ascension and parachute drop during a heavy wind, which hurled him against a brick building with terrific force. He was fearfully injured. It was nearly an hour before he regained consciousness.

BETTER TIMES COMING.

Manufacturers at Indianapolis Start the Ball Rolling.

Shops Which Were Closed Are Preparing to Resume Work and Business Men Say Confidence is Being Restored.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 28.—There has been a marked change in the industrial situation in the manufacturing suburbs of this city within the past week. Altogether a much better feeling prevails. Several of the larger establishments have increased their working forces and many of them have received orders which indicate a more healthy feeling among the buyers and an increasing confidence for the future. The car works, which discharged a number of its men when the financial panic first appeared, is running with nearly a full force, and the Cerealine works have resumed with a full complement of men. Other industries are preparing to resume on the first of the month, and though the utmost care is experienced in accepting orders, it is believed that business will justify a general resumption between the first and middle of the coming month.

A FUSION DEAL.

Democrats and Republicans United in Kansas.

A Bitter Fight Now Brewing Between the Populists and the Rest of Humanity.

TOPEKA, Kas., Aug. 28.—The latest fusion deal in Kansas has created a deal of comment among all classes of politicians. Saturday the republican and democratic central committees of Howard county met and called a joint committee of the two parties to meet at the court house in Liberal, Saturday, September 2, to nominate a county ticket. The call recites that it is time for all law abiding people in Kansas to come together in a broad and patriotic basis and unite in a solid phalanx against the onward march of anarchy and disorder that threatens to destroy the credit and good name of Kansas and hold her people up to ridicule and derision of the nation. These references are made against the populist party that is endeavoring to capture the heretofore republican counties in western Kansas. Dispatches from that section say that this democratic-republican fusion will probably be made in other counties.

DEPOT BURNED.

Fire Guts the Baltimore and Ohio Building at McKeesport, Pa.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., Aug. 28.—At an early hour this morning the Baltimore and Ohio freight depot, a large iron structure, was completely wrecked and its contents destroyed by fire. Matches in household goods stored in the building are supposed to be the cause. The loss cannot be fully estimated, but is several thousand dollars.

QUITE A CYCLONE.

A Storm in Kansas Does Considerable Damage.

KIOWA, Kas., Aug. 28.—A storm of cyclonic nature struck this city about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The interior of Campbell's opera house is a complete wreck and the whole front of the bank of Kiowa is badly damaged. Several buildings and outhouses all over the city are down. There are no casualties as far as known.

HIS WIFE SHOT HIM.

He Was Drunk and She Shot Him in Self Defense.

OAKLAND, Cala., Aug. 28.—J. C. Crimmins was yesterday shot and mortally wounded by his wife. She sued for divorce a few days ago and the husband promised to reform his drinking habits. His wife claims her husband attacked her, when she shot him in self defense.

BLEW DOWN A CHURCH.

A Damaging Cyclone Wrecks Stratton's Ranch, in Texas.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 28.—Yesterday afternoon a local cyclonic storm blew down a small church on Stratton's ranch, four miles from Cleburne, and wounded twenty-one persons, broken limbs being the most serious injuries.

Rev. Dr. D. D. Bigger and son, of Tiffin, Ohio, were in the city at noon today on their way to Chicago, where they go to visit the world's fair. Dr. Bigger is the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Tiffin, Ohio, and is a brilliant pulpit orator and scholar. While at the Nickel Plate depot he called up a former Tiffin boy, now residing here, and said "how'd do" and "good-bye" through the telephone.

Joseph Storm, the well known hardware man, has gone north on account of hay fever.

MONROEVILLE MENTION.

Fort Wayne People Who Have Been Visiting There.

This gossipy budget of personal news is taken from the last issue of the Monroeville Breeze:

"Miss Francena Vince, of Fort Wayne, is the guest of her parents.

"Grandma Niezer, of Fort Wayne, is the guest of her sons, Louis, J. B. and John Niezer, this week.

"Mr. Albert Miller, of Fort Wayne, who has been visiting relatives and friends in this section for the past week, returned home Monday last.

"Mr and Mrs. Fred S. Brown, of Fort Wayne were the guests of Mrs. Brown's mother, Grandma Davis, of Allen street, Sunday last.

"Miss Lottie Rousseau of Toledo Ohio, was the guest of her father, Mr. F. Rousseau, and sister, Mrs. C. Rose, over Saturday last. Miss Queen Rousseau, of Fort Wayne, is here visiting the same parties.

"At the family residence of Mr and Mrs J. L. Parker, on Monroe street, on Wednesday of this week was the scene of a very pleasing occasion, it was an event in honor of Mr. Parker's fifty-fifth birthday. Among those present were Mrs. A. Phipps, Mrs. P. W. Snip and Miss Viola Parker, of Fort Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Potts, now stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Parker.

HELD ON SUSPICION.

James Henderson Thought to Be a Genuine Burglar.

He Is Held Until Wednesday, When Witnesses Will be Secured—Other Police Court Notes.

There was a full house at police court this morning, Mayor Zollinger officiating. H. Meyers, a common drunk, was sent out for fifteen days, James Schopp and William Thompson, both drunks, were sent over for eleven days each.

James Henderson was up for vagrancy. He was arrested about mid night by Officer Paul at the Arlington hotel on suspicion of being one of the parties who helped ransack several houses at Lakeside a few weeks ago. The man claimed at first to be a horse shoer and said Minneapolis was his home. He pretended not to know what he was arrested for, and swore it was an outrage for him to be placed in prison just because he was a stranger in the city. The fellow claimed to know several people in this city and wanted to be identified and released, but the officers thought best to hold him. "Jim" is said to be a three card monte man and has worked his game all over the country. Mayor Zollinger held him over until Wednesday in the sum of $50, as it is thought a number of witnesses can be secured to prove that "Jim" was one of the men who ransacked the Lakeside houses the day Forepaugh's show was in town.

Four women and six men, arrested in Madge Cox's house of ill repute on Saturday evening, plead guilty by proxy and paid $15.50 each.

Jennie Brown, a black eyed damsel, was not so lucky. She was arrested in rooms over 29 Harrison street. She was fined $15.50 and went out with the officer to hunt up some one to pay her fine.

IN THE OPEN AIR.

The Y. M. C. A. Sunday Services on the Court House Square.

The Sunday afternoon open-air meetings of the Young Men's Christian association are proving popular and interesting, the one yesterday being well attended. It was held on the east side of the court house, the speaking being from the steps. The singing was conducted by a choir of young men, led by W. J. Holland accompanied by two cornets, the opening prayer delivered by Rev. A. K. Zartman, and the scriptures read by Secretary D. F Bower.

The address was delivered by Dr. G. N. Eldridge, the pastor of the Wayne Street M. E. church. He took for his theme the absolutely perfect power of the gospel of Christ to save the sinners from their sin.

It was for all. Whosoever will may come and partake of the waters of life freely—the rich, the poor, the high, the low. Whosoever! The promise is broad enough to include every class and condition of men. In my church, he said, the poor are just as welcome as the rich, and I instruct the ushers to give them the best seats. No sticking them off in one corner because they wear poor clothes. If the ushers can't find a good seat for the poor man I want them to bring him up in the pulpit, I'll find a seat for them there.

It is a free salvation. No man can get a corner on it as he can on wheat and pork and other commodities of life. It is freer than water or air, because you can charge men for these or deprive them of both, but you can't shut out religion from any one who is willing to accept God's terms of salvation.

It is a full salvation. You may be lying upon a bed o' sickness and call in a physician "doctor, can you cure me?" you ask. "I can relieve your suffering," he replies. "No, but can you cure me?" you again ask. He turns his face away and gives you an evasive answer, for your disease is beyond human skill. The gospel of Christ is a full and complete salvation. It can save the worst of cases, and reach the vilest sinner outside of hell.

The speaker continued to illustrate other phases of his theme, showing the absolute perfection of God's plan of salvation and closed with an eloquent plea to any in his audience to accept Christ.

Just So.

In speaking of the races of the Fort Wayne Driving association, held in this city, the Monroeville Breeze says: "The attendance each day was large, but would have been much larger had the managers barred the hellish beer stand and gambling booths that were permitted to be upon the grounds. Such places of iniquity will always have a tendency to place a cloud over any enterprise, and was the only thing that ever caused the famous Allen county fairs to be a failure, and will in time cause the same result to befall the driving association if not barred in the future. Such places are invariably the scene of robbery, riots and drunkenness.

INDIANA DEATHS.

Three Well Known Men Called to Their Last Home.

Samuel McGaughey, of Huntington, Burke, the Ball Player, and Joseph Halsley.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Aug. 28.—Hon. Samuel McGaughey, a prominent citizen, aged seventy eight, died yesterday morning. He was postmaster of Massillon, Ohio under President Polk. He has lived in Huntington county since 1851. He was always a democrat, and had filled the offices of township trustee, county treasurer, representative, and the last six years was member of the school board. The funeral will be held Wednesday.

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 28.—Joseph Burke, the well known first baseman of the Muncie ball club, died yesterday morning of the injuries he received in a game with Lebanon seven weeks ago. Burke was at the bat and one of Pitcher Utter's speedy in shots hit him in the back and the spine was permanently injured. Burke was one of the most gentlemanly players in the business. He played with New Orleans last year and also with Dayton, and with Muncie in the Indiana State League. He leaves a wife and a small son.

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug 28.—Joseph Hunkey, aged sixty-nine years, died in this city Saturday. His remains were taken to Webster, Wayne county, for burial.

IMPOSED UPON.

Mrs. Sidney Haven Denounces a Book Concern.

Says She Was Unknowingly Led Into Canvassing for a Book Which Never Existed.

At the Randall hotel this morning was Mrs Sidney Haven, a lady from New York city, who told a SENTINEL representative how she had been imposed upon by a firm which she alleges is a bogus publishing company of New York city.

Mrs. Haven said: "Several weeks ago the Curtis Publishing company advertised in the New York World for a lady canvasser to sell a fashion book. About fifty ladies answered the advertisement and met in the parlors of the Morton house. I was among the number. Although an actress by profession I wished a change from the hard work on the boards and so answered the advertisement. I saw that the book which the firm wished to sell was an excellent one and I was chosen as agent from among the fifty ladies. The negotiations were carried on through an agent of the company named George W. Scranton. I was to receive $10 per week salary and all my expenses paid. The book I was to handle was intended for dress makers and contained all the latest patterns and other information useful to that trade. The book was to be issued monthly and was secured by an advance payment of $2.50. I carried one sample which was elegantly gotten up. I met with splendid success and sold in New York state, upper Pennsylvania, Ohio and arrived here Saturday to sell the book in this county. Mr. Scranton worked territory adjacent to mine and always managed to meet me every few days and settle up, paying me my salary and taking the money over, which was always considerable for I sold many books, the inducement being a splendid one. For a few days past I have been suspicious that all was not right and when I arrived here Saturday and put up at the Randall I learned that Mr. Scranton had been here before me and had canvassed the territory. I also received a dispatch from my sister in New York city stating that the city papers had advertised the Curtis company as being a fraud. Having only $15 I was at a loss what to do or how to get back to New York. I explained my case to Mr. Townsend, of the Randall, who very kindly advised me what to do. Mr. Scranton arrived at the hotel yesterday and I had a settlement with him in full, and he paid me all that was coming to me. I then accused him of being a fraud and made things pretty warm for him, not so much on my own account as on account of the hundreds of poor dressmakers who I have induced to purchase the work. Scranton made all kinds of excuses, but I saw through the whole thing at a glance. Last night I was informed that Scranton was going to leave on the 2 o'clock train, and ran down to the office to have him arrested. I sent for the chief of police, but he allowed Scranton to get away, saying that my evidence was not enough to hold him. I am greatly worried, and had it not been for the extreme kindness of Mr. Townsend in helping me to bring the agent to time I don't know what I would have done. I leave for New York tonight, and will at once proceed to have the book company prosecuted. I fear none of the dressmakers will ever get a cent back."

A NATIONAL AFFAIR.

Mexico Agrieved at the Action of Texas Rangers.

The Latter, While Pursuing Cattle Thieves, Invade Mexican Territory, Where a Fight Occurs.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 28.—The pursuit of the band of Mexican cattle thieves and smugglers in the "Pleady Peninsula" of Texas about six weeks ago by Texas rangers commanded by Captain Frank Jones who was killed in an encounter with the outlaws has resulted in a slight international complication. The Mexicans took refuge on an island in the Rio Grande, which was supposed to be neutral soil. The rangers "trailed" the band to the rendezvous and attacked them. The Mexican government now alleges that the rangers, in pursuit of the outlaws, invaded Mexico. The Mexican government has brought the matter to the attention of Secretary of State Gresham and he has requested the war department to investigate.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE

For the Funeral of Hon. J. K. Edgerton.

Three Old Settlers Pass Into the Beyond—Cholera Infantum Still Claims Little Children.

The remains of the Hon. J. K. Edgerton will arrive in this city Wednesday, over the Wabash railway at 1:25 p. m. The funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Trinity Episcopal church, Rev. Seabrease officiating.

BOONE.

On Saturday evening, at his home in Wayne township, occurred the death of Farmer John L. Boone, from stomach trouble. The deceased was eighty-five years of age and was born in Prince George county, Maryland. He was one of the oldest settlers of Allen county, having resided on the same farm where his death occurred for forty five years. He was a life long democrat, and was a delegate to the state convention last fall. The funeral service were held this morning at 8 o'clock from the house and 9:30 from St. Patrick's church in this city.

STONE.

Yesterday morning occurred the death of Charles L., the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Stone, of cholera infantum, at the residence, No. 36 Walton avenue. The funeral will occur tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Paul's M. E. church.

ANDERSON.

Mrs. Anna Anderson, wife of Samuel L. Anderson, of Lake township, died yesterday afternoon of consumption, aged fifty-three years. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 a. m. from the residence.

LANCIR.

Louise Lancir, aged sixty-five, died this morning at her home in St. Joseph township. A tumor caused her death. The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, from St. Vincent's church, Academic station.

GRENZENBACH.

Clara, the nine-month-old daughter of August Grenzenbach, of No. 205 Hayden street, died this morning of cholera infantum. The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2 o'clock from the John's Reformed church. Rev. Schaal officiating.

A SMALL RIOT

Follows the Resumption of Work at Denver.

The Strikers Attack and Drive Away the Men Who Are Willing to Work for $1.40 Per Day.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 28.—There was a small riot when work was resumed on the North sewers this morning. The contractor had arranged to pay $1.40 for eight hours work and a number of men took up their picks and shovels when time was called. The crowd of strikers who are holding out for $1.75 per day immediately set upon the men in the trench and after a lively skirmish, drove them off. There were several Italians in the attacking party. One Italian who was at work in the trench was almost completely covered with earth thrown upon him by a striker and was pretty badly used up when taken out. The police were early on the scene and made three arrests. Work was suspended to prevent further trouble, but the contractor will resume operations this afternoon under a strong police guard.

TWO MORE CASES.

Smallpox at Muncie Continues to Spread.

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 28.—There were two new cases of smallpox in the Russell family yesterday and two suspected cases at the Van Matre house in the infected district. The Russell house is where the young woman died with the disease last week. The mother and a daughter are now down with it. The Van Matre home has been infected with a case for a week, and all of the new developments were anticipated. There is a reported case at Daleville but County Health Officer Cowing will give it strict attention and keep a close quarantine to prevent it spreading.

MONEY MATTERS.

Movements of Gold—Issue of Silver Dollars.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Wells, Fargo & Company shipped 25,000 gold bars on Saturday to Europe by LaTara.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The steamships New York, Campania and La Bourgogne brought $5,175,000.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The issue of standard silver dollars to the mints and treasury offices for the week ending August 26th, 1893, was $558,740, for the corresponding period of 1892, $641,180. The shipment of fractional silver coin from the 1st to the 26th instant aggregated $240,199.

Miss Frederika Schortemeyer, night telegraph operator in the Wabash offices spent Sunday with friends at Roanoke, Ind.

SAYS IT'S ABUSED.

Butchers' Protective Association Goes for the Inspection Law.

Retail Dealers to Look After Wholesalers Who Are Selling at Retail Prices.

The headquarters of the Butchers' National Protective association of the United States is located in this city. B. Shaw, of 26 Smith street, having been chosen president at the last national convention.

President Shaw has just issued his second official circular to the members of the association. In this circular is set forth the recommendations to the policy committee. The circular, aside from containing a number of valuable recommendations, contains the following, which is of great interest to members of the association:

"We believe it to be to the interest of all the members of this association not to patronize any wholesale butcher who retails meat at wholesale prices, and that each local association should take such action that would put a quietus to the same, and the national secretary shall be notified by the local secretary, giving the name or firm of any of said wholesale butchers in said city retailing at wholesale prices to the injury of its members. And it shall be the duty of the national secretary to so notify the local managers or proprietors of said firm to quit retailing at wholesale prices. If said firm of wholesale butchers fail to pay any attention to the request of the national secretary, then the national secretary is herewith instructed to notify all local butchers and branches under the national, not to buy any meats from said named wholesale butchers, in case they should offer any meats for sale in their city.

"We believe that the United States inspection law for export meat trade is abused, and that the law is not strictly carried out, and therefore would respectfully ask of Hon. Morton, secretary of agriculture, to investigate the same. Also, have meats killed for home markets any right under the government inspection law for export trade, to carry the government inspection certificates?"

GIVE THE UNEMPLOYED WORK.

The City Council Should Make Needed Public Improvements.

EDITOR SENTINEL:

In a late issue of THE SENTINEL appeared a correspondence from X. X., complimenting the members of the city council for their excellent judgment in curtailing the expenses of the municipality by stopping all further public work. The reason assigned was the stringency of finances and consequent burden of taxation.

It occurs to your subscriber that this is not the correct action at this time. Among the various functions of government, municipal, state or national, if there is one more important than another it is that which guards the welfare and comfort of the citizen. Therefore, in times of great business depression such as we are now passing through, the city government should, with a paternal solicitude for its people, seek in all possible ways to lighten the burdens of the enforced idleness which is upon us. If taxes burden the business part of the community, what shall be said of our unfortunate fellows who have taxes accumulating also and no employment to meet either taxes or proper provision for those dependent upon them?

Is there a man who has employment in our growing city so destitute of kindly feeling for his unfortunate fellows that he would not willingly assume just a little heavier burden of taxation for the humane purpose of allowing his neighbor who is out of employment to secure a little income to provide for his family and respond to the call of the tax-gatherer, whose decrees are as inexorable and certain as the fulfillment of the edict that "unto dust we shall all return?"

Now, instead of this cruel retrenchment, for which X. X. congratulates the city fathers, it would be far better, and more humane, were the council to order a general cleaning up of the city, especially its sidewalks, and confine the employment of men to residents of the city. Let the water works trustees do likewise in the work that is needed in the vicinity of the reservoir. Many laboring men are now on half time where they are employed, who would gladly avail themselves of the opportunity to work the other half day on such public work.

The city cannot afford to pursue a niggardly policy of retrenchment that will vastly enlarge the delinquent list of taxpayers and cause hundreds of its citizens to surrender the homes they have undertaken to secure through our several loan associations.

In these perilous times let justice and mercy go hand in hand for the common weal is the prayer of

REDDING'S RIDE.

He Sprained His Ankle, But Makes a Bicycle Tour.

Wm. H. Redding, Charles Gross and Fred Myers, of the Indiana Furniture company, made a trip on their bicycles yesterday to Columbia City and return. They left Fort Wayne at 4 o'clock in the morning and made the trip safely to Columbia City, where they took their dinner and returned in the afternoon, reaching here at 4 o'clock. On their return trip Mr. Redding, while some miles from Fort Wayne met with an accident by which he sprained his ankle and he was towed into the city by Mr. Gross who hitched a rope to his bicycle.

Messrs Gross and Myers will leave in a week or two on their bicycles for Chicago, making the trip on their wheels, which they think they can do between 4 o'clock in the morning and 10 o'clock at night. Each of them have made their one hundred miles in ten hours.

Suit to Recover the Possession of a Race Horse.

The Day's Record of the Courts Reveal No Cases of a Very Interesting Character.

Randall & Doughman, as attorneys for Annie Parker, commenced an action in replevin in the circuit court against Edward F. Clausmeier, the sheriff, and the Kerr Murray Manufacturing company to recover the possession of one bay gelding, sired by Worthles Wilkes, valued at $1,500. The horse had been seized by the sheriff in an attachment suit begun against Bascom Parker.

COURT NOTES.

The will of John L. Boone has been filed. He gives his farm to his wife and two sons.

Edward P. Scheckler and Maude Colfert have been licensed to wed.

Justice France is hearing the assault and battery suits of Ida DeWald and Fred Getling and Mary Blakesley.

The sheriff's deputies were called out to the vicinity of the Feeble Minded institute at noon to arrest four tramps who attempted to assault Al. Doctor.

On Hanna street at noon yesterday a woman struck her husband over the head with an umbrella because she saw him walking with another woman. The man had previously left his wife but had no divorce from her.

William Rockhill and Arthur P. Cook yesterday capiased Julius Rath for a debt on a note, the amount claimed being about $22. The case was continued to August 31, at 2 p. m., by Justice Hays.

The case against Julius Wagoner for the alleged shooting of a dog belonging to Henry Schroeder was dismissed by Justice Hays.

Grant Betts, one of the three alleged burglars who went through Farmer Sexvel's house in Maumee township, was released from jail on $300 bail. The trial will be held in September.

At their session Saturday the county commissioners let the contracts for the stone work on seven new bridges. One of them is the Vanburen street bridge in the city limits and when completed will make a long needed connection between the west end and Bloomingdale. Baxton & Mills, of Ohio, secured the contract for the work on six of the bridges, and Herman W. Tapp secured the contract for the stone work on the other. The bids were all very low, the average cost being $6.60 per foot.

Deputies Melching and Harrod and Sergeant Borgman and Officer Richter went out to Centlivre's park last night and arrested two negroes and a boy who was sleeping in a stable. Justice Ryan sent the men to jail and released the boy.

In the case against Korn, before Justice Ryan this afternoon, John Kodabaugh, attorney for defendant, took a change of venue to the mayor.

TALKED ABOUT.

Ossian Entertains Some of Our Fort Wayne People.

The Ossian News of last week has this personal gossip about Fort Wayne people:

"Misses Martha Curry and Ellen Gallagher, of Fort Wayne, are visiting old acquaintances in Ossian this week.

"Miss Mollie Rumrill, of Fort Wayne, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Chupp.

"Dr. Metcalf, of Fort Wayne, was called a few days ago to see John Gorrell, who is quite ill at his home in West Ossian.

"Rev. Clippenger, of Fort Wayne, preached to large and appreciative audiences at the M. E. church Sunday morning and evening.

"H. Hatfield and wife spent Saturday at Fort Wayne visiting their nephew M. K. Donaldson, who is critically ill at his home in that city.

"Mrs Rev. J. B. Alleman and her daughters, Misses Mable and Mamie of Fort Wayne came out Friday and enjoyed a several days visit with their many friends in this vicinity.

"Mr. and Mrs. Rechling, of Allen county, and Joseph Crummitt and wife, of Fort Wayne, were in the city the first of the week to see Miss Rosa Crummitt, who is suffering from a malignant attack of typhoid fever."

In its Williamsport correspondence these items are found:

"Eugene Smith, of the Fort Wayne Newspaper Union, with his wife, were visitors with Mrs. Cartwright over Sunday."

Charles J. Lipes, of Fort Wayne after four years absence, was a visitor at his father's home last Sunday."

ALL QUIET AT CHICAGO.

The Police Prevent Further Labor Demonstrations.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—The police today are keeping close watch upon the lake front, and, though it is declared at headquarters that no further trouble is expected, more officers than usual were sent to the park today to mingle with the crowd and report any signs of disturbance. There will be no parade of unemployed men today, nor at any future time, Mayor Harrison having instructed Chief of Police Brennan not to allow any more parades.

The Liberty Advance, of Missouri, announces that it will continue to take wood on subscription, but insists that it shall be straight, seasoned, shell bark hickory with not more than one third pound sticks.

How is this for the worst story ever told? The Parsons Kansas Sun claims that a swarm of potato bugs broke up a religious meeting near that city by crawling over the worshippers till they broke and ran, leaving the pastor astounded.

The South Whitley News complains because The Sentinel copied one of its local articles and failed to give it credit. A short but bloody riot occurred at Chicago on Saturday. Police officers and parading unemployed men came together and clubs and rocks were used with serious effect. Several persons were severely injured. Mayor Harrison appeared at one of the meetings of the unemployed men and told them that if they persisted in carrying on their parades and noisy gatherings upon the streets, impeding traffic and turning over vehicles, he declared that they would be stopped by the police, but he hoped that such methods would not be required.

Don't Speak for the Party.

No one will question Senator Hill's competency to speak for himself, but it is doubtful if other democratic senators have determined to make him their mouthpiece. When, therefore, he undertook to tell what he and they would do in a contingency which is not likely to arise, and to make that contingency the occasion of a covert attack on President Cleveland, he was probably guilty of an unwarrantable assumption. Senator Hill ought to realize that he is not the democratic party, and long observation ought to have taught him, to use a homely phrase, that the tail does not wag the dog.

Hon. J. K. Edgerton.

In the death of Hon. J. K. Edgerton the newspapers of the city lose a man who was often a great aid to them when in search of information concerning events in the past history of Fort Wayne. Such a character they also lost in the demise of Hon. F. P. Randall. Both men were closely identified with the growth of the city, and had stored either in their memories or their libraries facts and reminiscences which the newspapers often had occasion to use, and hence at such times, data was sought for from them.

Mr. Edgerton was thoroughly familiar with the political history of the city, congressional district and the state, and always loved to talk about some of the old political campaigns in which he took an active and prominent part.

It was while preparing articles for The Sentinel concerning "Our Congressmen" and "The History of the Fort Wayne District in Congress from the Organization of Indiana as a State," that the writer of this was indebted to him, and was enabled to furnish for The Sentinel a contribution to the history of Fort Wayne and Allen county and the congressional districts of which the county has from time to time formed a part that was of great value and was copied by many other newspapers through the northern part of the state. To give brief sketches in chronological order of the men who have represented the district in congress beginning with the organization of the state. These sketches were [illegible] it was necessary to search through manuscript, [illegible] by him and listen to his personal recollection of many of the men who were prominent in the [illegible]

The financial panic recalls the story of how the cashier of a bank in an iron-mill town stopped a run. He sent the porter with a basket of silver dollars to a room near by where there was a stove, with instructions to "heat those silver dollars a little." They were heated and in that condition he handed them out with a coal scoop. The depositors grabbed the coin, then kicked. "But you'll have to take them that way," said the cashier. "We are turning them out as fast as we can melt and mold them, and if you won't wait till they cool you'll have to take them hot." That settled it. The run was stopped.

A [illegible] Baltimore lady who visited a milliner's shop [illegible] ago was appalled on reaching home after her shopping tour to discover that she had lost one of her thousand-dollar diamond earrings. There was much weeping and many advertisements. The other day a lady residing in Malvern wrote to the millinery firm that the bonnet which she had purchased of them had arrived safely, and that she was particularly well pleased to find a diamond entangled in the lace trimmings. She concluded her letter by saying she was anxious to return the diamond to its owner. Honesty such as this is seldom seen.

It was a silver watch, two and a half inches in diameter. Lunatics swallow many queer things and escape unharmed, probably some folks might be as lucky but don't take the risks of such experiments.

The medical colleges of New York are considering a plan to provide bedside instruction in contagious diseases, so that fresh graduates may be better able to recognize at sight such diseases as measles, scarlet fever, smallpox, typhus, etc. Dr. Shrady tells an amusing story to illustrate the necessity of this in which he recalls how the child's grandmother helped him make his first diagnosis of a case of measles, and what a narrow escape he had from being detected in taking his diagnosis from the grandmother.

A Touching Incident.

A prominent citizen of Versailles visited Camp Robinson and remained on the ground until the hour for retiring for the night. Everything being calm and quiet he concluded to walk around and see and hear what he could. His ear soon caught the sound of prayer, and, upon nearer approach, he found that it proceeded from a tent occupied by some Tennesseeans. These pious but persecuted men were engaged in solemn prayer to the Almighty, invoking His kind care and protection over their wives and little ones left behind in their once happy homes. Although not much given to a melting mood, our friend could not restrain a tear of sympathy. He felt grateful that he was a citizen of Kentucky, and he felt his soul strengthened to battle for her freedom to the last extremity.—Mrs. Went's Scrap Book.

Down on that little [illegible] ing ground, in the southeastern corner of the grounds, where the tribes of many tribes have to encamped [illegible] wigwams, [illegible] and bark huts, the Indian school building is located. It is [illegible] of the camp, where primitive life of the Indian is portrayed by Indians who have never abandoned the customs and costumes of their ancestors, and where again it is emulated by Indians who know of the ways of their forefathers only by tradition. Within its walls is unfolded the future of the Indian, just as the Anthropological building, away off on the other bank, contains the past of the Indian.

The building is a comfortable and commodious two-story frame structure, erected by the government. The Indian school is one of the many excellent government exhibits at the fair, for all the Indian schools in the country, at the agencies, especially located or philanthropically organized by private individuals, are more or less conducted under government auspices, and are dependent, in some degree, upon its bounty.

The building is an object forum. The scheme is to have Indian pupils of the different schools throughout the country, from time to time assemble in the building, live there their school life, and put before the great public of America and the world what the United States is doing for its wards, and how worthy they are of such educational advantage as the government affords. The co-education of the sexes has been undertaken, and the Indian girls and boys at the World's Fair lead a life open at [illegible] to the public. They work, they study and play in the sight of the multitudes who visit the Fair.

So far there have been three Indian schools represented at the Fair, whose children have stood the supreme examination of sympathizing friends and the unsympathetic scrutiny of a curious public. The first school of Albuquerque, N. M., whose children were largely Navajoes and Apaches, has passed the ordeal, so has the St. Joseph school of [illegible] Indians, and the other institutions are now on trial.

The Lincoln institution, like all kindred schools, is an industrial, a manual training school in which the mind is not only cultured, or taught the appreciation of "book larnin'," but the hand and the eye, and the ear taught, the hand to make and fashion, the eye to judge and the ear to appreciate the adages of wisdom, the power of knowledge, and to welcome the concord of sweet sounds.

Hourly, each day, the boys and girls can be seen in the schoolroom, in the workshops, at work, the girls in the discharge of housewifely duties about the building and in the kitchen, and one of the greatest pleasures during leisure hours is for all, girls and boys, to congregate in the music room, and there around the grand piano exploit with voice or deft touch of fingers the harmonies they have learned in school hours. The Indians once taught its rhythm become passionately fond of music, and there are adept instrumentalists among the Lincoln boys and girls, while they carol and chorus in unison with fine effect, as has been attested by the approval bestowed upon them at several public concerts they have given.

To him, and especially to the western man, who has seen the Indian in his pristine dignity, wrapped in vermin-covered blanket, sitting in the sunny side of the agency commissary building, it is a strange sight to see a well grown Indian lad sitting at a piano fingering out Strauss waltzes, or rattling forth "Marching Through Georgia." And remembering, too, the western scene at the agency, and calling to mind the squaw unkempt and unclean, scraping up the offal at the commissary [illegible], it is a stranger sight still to see a pretty, daintily dressed Indian girl step to the piano and [illegible] playing her own accompaniment, sing sweetly, and with expressive and sympathetic voice, a coy love song. And stranger still, while she sings, a [illegible] Indian youth, wearing gold rimmed spectacles, turns over the leaves of the music.

Out at the agency these young people would be "bucks and squaws," at the school they are young gentlemen and ladies.

The pupils range all the way from [illegible]-year-old Nancy and 6-year-old Tom, two cute little ones, to young men and women 26 years old. Some have been in the school for eight years, others number their attendance by months. But big or little, long or recently only pupils of the school, they are children of one family, though of many tribes, and young and old could give pointers in deportment to any white boarding school, male or female, in the country. They are on exhibition, to be sure, are impressed with the importance of having "their company manners" always on tap, but, for all that, they move about the grounds [illegible] that Indians do have curiosity [illegible] their contact [illegible] exclamations as "Ain't that cute."

But it is not alone music the Indians are taught. The girls are taught [illegible] ness of person, first, and [illegible] impressed with the importance of being personally attractive [illegible] the Indian maiden, than [illegible] when she first came to school [illegible]

[illegible] the Art of Cooking before the Board of Lady Managers in the Woman's building [illegible] specimens of their handiwork [illegible] artistic, while the [illegible] girls look as if they had been modeled in their pretty blue uniforms fitted and made by the girls of the school.

While the girls ply the needle and work the sewing machines, the boys shove the carpenter's plane, pound away at the forge, [illegible] useful trades, and thus [illegible] journeyman rather than that of apprentice.

Drawing, or [illegible] has been known [illegible] the Indian always. [illegible] kinds of drawing. Strange [illegible] which a Van Dyck or Quintin [illegible] would [illegible] Madonna out of the [illegible] The Indian artist, so far as he has been developed in our schools, doesn't attempt [illegible] sketches Indian features and distinctive facial marks. If genius for the art he seems to [illegible] not restrained in his conceptions, but in all else the policy is to make him forget the blanket period of his existence and to remember that he is an American.

And the contrast a few months make, a few years' progress! Blanketed and breech-clouted, he comes to school, savage and [illegible], unable to speak a word of English, his [illegible] a difficult task and that he soon [illegible] wearing clothes even with dudish care, and learns to talk readily without a perceptible accent, shows Indian adaptability and intelligence. Dressed in blue uniforms and militarily organized, the boys have a manly bearing, are proud of their country, [illegible] the discharge of their duties [illegible] neat and careful about their appearance, [illegible] greater effort by the approval of the girls.

And what is to be done with these "exhibits of natives," transformed, metamorphosed by the stimulus of the education, the artificial methods of the white man? Changed, so changed since they came to school, with Indian habits eradicated, even Indian features toned down by the refining influence of education, and Indian thought superseded by the inspiration acquired knowledge bestows, what is to become of these Indian girls and boys, young women and men, equipped [illegible] and industriously for useful lives and good citizenship?

Walter Besant on America.

There is one Englishman anyway who finds something to admire and commend in this country. In a letter written on the eve of his departure from the city of the World's Fair, Mr. Walter Besant says:

"I carry away a delightful memory—yes so much of a Chicago, rich, daring, young, and confident—so of a Chicago which has conceived and carried into execution the most beautiful and poetic dream—a palace surpassing the imagination of man, as man is WALTER BESANT. commonly found—and a Chicago loving the old literature, discerning and proving that which is new, and laying the foundations for that which is to come. A Chicago which is destined to become the center of American literature in the future."

RINGING SOUND IN THE EARS.

The earliest symptom of beginning deafness in many cases is a ringing sound in the ears. Many patients describe it as a noise all through the head rather than in the ear itself. It [illegible] at first only at rare occasions. The ringing may be present for a time, barely perceptible, when suddenly the sound will change, becoming much louder, and the notes jump [illegible] up in the scale where it will continue to ring quite loud for some minutes, and gradually die away, to appear again some time afterward. It may disappear in a few hours as the trouble with the ear progresses. Ringing in the ear may also be the prelude to an acute attack of earache, but it is then very soon followed by pain, which so predominates over the ringing that it is no longer heard. If the hearing is properly tested just as soon as the ringing in the ear has become more or less constant, some degree of deafness will be detected. As the case progresses, even before all the so-called [illegible] hearing has been destroyed, the patient will realize that he is becoming deaf.

For this condition there is nothing to be done by the patient himself. Advice from a physician should be obtained just as soon as diminution of hearing is suspected. Much can be accomplished, however, by the patient toward preventing the deafness becoming worse. Careful attention should be devoted to the general health, to keep the nose and throat in as healthy condition as possible, to prevent "taking cold," especially cold in the head. Exposure to changes in the weather should be avoided, the feet never being allowed to become wet, or if they do become wet the shoes and stockings should be changed for dry ones as soon as possible. Turkish baths and plenty of outdoor exercise are strongly recommended to stimulate the circulation and inure the system to changes of weather.

COAL DUST EXPLOSIONS.

[illegible] to Produce Artificially, But Has to Oxygen and Dust.

In the course of a lecture recently by Professor Harold B. Dixon, of the Owens college, Manchester, on "Coal and Coal Mining," he directed attention to the evidence which has been accumulated regarding the action of finely divided coal dust either in promoting or aggravating the intensity of explosions produced by fire, or, on the other hand, igniting itself and causing an explosion in mines, says the Scientific American.

He said the question which was being considered was this: Is dust capable of creating a flame when it comes in contact with a large flame such as may be produced by a blown-out shot or by an explosion of gas and air? It was not supposed that an ordinary naked light in a mine would suffice for an explosion of coal dust and air. There must be first a great disturbance to raise the dust, and mingle it with the air, to make it an explosive mixture, and there must be a great heat locally applied to initiate the explosion.

But when once this had been set up, a flame might extend so far as there was the coal dust lying on the floor or sides, and the damage done by it was comparable, at all events, to that caused by an explosion of fire damp and air. This was a view frequently urged, and, in support of it, the lecturer tried a few experiments. He showed that fine dust falling on a flame will give off flame and sparks, and that when mixed with oxygen an intense flame is produced. The difficulty, he added, was to obtain the requisite proportions of coal dust and air to make the explosive mixture.

Doctors and Clergymen.

Of every 1,000 clergymen between the ages of 25 and 65 it is found that only 15.93 die annually. But of every 1,000 doctors between the ages of 25 and 65 no fewer than 28.02 die every year. That is to say, the mortality of medical men is almost double that of clergymen and the rate is increasing.

The Change of Life.

Women nearing this critical period require strength, health, and cheerful spirits.

The sole aim of this time should be to keep well.

The invaluable aid always is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The girl about to enter womanhood can find the same assistance from the same source.

Mrs. W. W. Culner, Palatka, Fla., writes:—

"I was in ill health from change of life. I took your compound and am now well. I recommend it as the best remedy for all weakness through the many changes which all women have to pass from early life to the grave."

REDUCING EXPENSES.

The Working Hours at the Pittsburg Shops Cut Down.

Accidents, Incidents and Personal Mention of the People About the Railway Centers.

Five or six weeks ago, when the order reducing the number of working hours in the Pittsburg shops from sixty to forty five per week was issued, the employes were, in a measure, prepared for such an event and were, therefore, not surprised. Several weeks before other railway shops commenced reducing expenses and the Pittsburg shopmen felt that it was only a matter of time when their earnings would be affected in some manner. When they learned that it was to be accomplished by a reduction of the working hours, they accepted the situation philosophically, reasoning that the company had adopted this method, rather than that of suspending a part of the force. There was, apparently, plenty of work and the employes believed that the worst had arrived and were expecting each week an improvement of the business of the road which would justify a return to the old order of things. Instead of an improvement, however, there has been a steady decline in business, particularly in the freight traffic, which last week fell to the lowest notch reached in the past decade. To make "both ends meet" the company decided upon still further reduction of their shop expenses, and last Saturday night the following notice was posted in each of the departments of the works.

"Commencing Monday, August 28, this shop will work but five hours per day, commencing work at 6:30 and quitting at 11:30 o'clock, making thirty hours per week."

The employes were hardly prepared for such a cut, but believing a half loaf is better than no loaf they did not complain. It would be less expensive to the company to suspend half the force than to retain all the men and work half time, but the officials know that the suspended men could not get employment elsewhere and hence the reduction of working hours.

The Fort Wayne shops are more fortunate than many others. At Wellsville and Erie the Pennsylvania shops have practically suspended operations for a week or two at least. All new work has stopped and only such repair work as is absolutely necessary is being done.

Under the half time rule the common laborers who receive twelve and one half cents per hour, will be the greatest sufferers. The mechanic who receives from twenty five to thirty-five cents per hour, will still earn enough to keep up expenses.

DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED.

Judge Ricks, of Toledo, has made an order allowing the receiver of the Ann Arbor Railroad company and Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, to settle the $20,000 damage suit brought by the railroad company against Chief Arthur during the late trouble. Arthur agrees to pay $2,500 and the costs in this case and also the costs in the case of the Ann Arbor against the Pennsylvania and other connecting lines that were brought into the affair.

BRIEFLY TOLD.

J. W. Thompson, machinist at the Bass works, has returned from the world's fair.

Pittsburg engine No. 113 broke down yesterday and is now in the shops undergoing repairs.

A. Bignon, an upholsterer, has quit the Pittsburg shops. He will seek employment elsewhere.

O. W. Layman has returned from the world's fair. He is employed in the Pittsburg planing mill.

Machinist Joseph Woolf, of the Pittsburg shops, has returned from Chicago, where he took in the fair.

Machinist J. W. Frederick, of the Bass works, has returned from Muncie, where he repaired an engine.

D. A. Welford, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, who was on the sick list, reported for duty this morning.

The Anthony Wayne works, after a two weeks' run, closed down Saturday night to await an improvement in financial matters.

H. C. Horstman, J. Kelly, E. Bullemeyer and A. Redenbeck, car builders, employed at the east shops, have returned from the world's fair.

Joseph Denninger, who had a foot injured in the Bass machine shop two weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to return to his duties in the shop.

William Linscoody's steam hammer in the Bass shops shut down this morning until business improves. The steam hammer operated by Peter Anderson was started up this morning.

The Pennsylvania ball club has arranged to play ball with the Plymouth team at Lakeside park next Sunday and the Delphos team at the same place on Monday, Labor Day.

Fred Meyers, Herman Rambke, E. Rhoads and John Stahlhut have returned from [illegible] City, where they spent two weeks fishing. They had an excellent time and can tell many wonderful fish stories.

[illegible] other men are out of employment at South Bend.

C. I. Scott, of Shop Clerk Meegan's office, has returned from [illegible].

H. S. Mc[illegible], of the Pittsburg shops, has gone to Chicago to spend a week.

Private [illegible] J. Keppel, Pittsburg boilermaker, [illegible] from his duties in the shop.

Boilermaker J. J. Peckes, of the Pittsburg shops, has returned from the world's fair.

The families of Conductors George Blackburn and A. D. Craig spent Sunday with friends near Middlepoint, Ohio.

Newton Darr, of Huntington, a fireman on the Chicago and Erie railroad, is in Fort Wayne undergoing treatment for his eyes.

Nickel Plate Engineer Quinn has been off duty several days with a sprained back. The injury was received by a fall at Fostoria, Ohio.

The track layers of the Elkhart and Western have completed their track to the limits of Elkhart. The work has been delayed somewhat of late by lack of material.

The trainmen on the Baltimore and Ohio have more grievances, and have gone, through their committees, to Baltimore for a conference with General Manager O'Dell.

Henry Studer, the well known Nickel Plate engineer, lost a roll of bills amounting to $25 out of his pocket Friday evening, while en route home from the Nickel Plate round house.

Six thousand mechanics, car builders and laborers are thrown out of employment by the closing of the Michigan Peninsular car shops, which occurred Saturday night.

J. T. R. McKay, who has been with the Lake Shore road since 1877, and who, since 1885, has been the general freight agent of the road, lies at the point of death in Cleveland.

The Lake Shore people are making some much needed changes in their system of tracks at Elkhart, which will enable the company to handle its freight and passenger trains at that point much more expeditiously.

Engineer W. D. Miller, who had an arm broken a week ago is getting along nicely. He can move the fingers of the injured arm without any pain and hopes to be relieved of the uncomfortable splints and bandages in another week.

Fred Menzing, the brick and stone mason, is entitled to the prize for catching the largest fish of the season. Last Saturday morning he caught a German carp which weighed eleven and one-quarter pounds. He caught the fish in the Maumee river.

An item in the city papers last Saturday to the effect that the Pennsylvania company had dropped one brakeman from each passenger crew was erroneous. Passenger crews have not been disturbed, but one man has been dropped from each freight crew.

The Wabash railroad has notified its employes that September 1st all fixed salaries amounting to $100 or over a month will be reduced 10 per cent. The reduction will not affect trainmen whose pay depends upon mileage made and those receiving less than $100.

This week the Conductors' Old Reliable Insurance association will hold its annual meeting in Detroit. Some of the Fort Wayne conductors will attend the meeting. This organization is next to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in age.

Nickel Plate engine No. 105 has recently been rebuilt in the Stony Island shops. Friday she brought No. 6, with ten heavily loaded Pullman cars, from Chicago, to this city, making the run on scheduled time. Considering the length of the train the run was remarkable.

Engineer and Mrs. Walter D. Millar had as their guests over Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McGowan, of Worchester, Mass., who are en route home after a visit to the world's fair. Mr. McGowen is a druggist and the nephew of Mr Miller. He was recently married and is now on his wedding tour.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, the Panhandle and the Big Four will soon have the connection of electric lines between Troy, Piqua and Dayton. An electric railroad is now nearing completion. The local business of the roads named between these points yields a considerable revenue.

Conductor John Slane, of the Pennsylvania's passenger service, who had the misfortune to badly mash several fingers by having them caught between the door and jamb of a coach a week ago, went to Chicago this morning to attend the fair. It was not necessary to amputate any of the injured fingers as was at first feared.

Columbia City Commercial: "We are glad to see that Conductor Peter Travis, who was so seriously sick for several days from strangulated hernia, has recovered and again has charge of the Plymouth accommodation. Mr. Travis is a Whitley county boy, and stands high with both the traveling public and his employer."

The third section of No. 25 the Pennsylvania's Columbian express yesterday carried 500 employes of the Philadelphia and Reading branch of the system to the world's fair. The next excursion of the kind will go through the city next Sunday, and arrangements have already been made to accommodate 2,100 people, also Pennsylvania employes and their families.

[illegible] Clary, and H. W. House, of the Pittsburg boiler shops, are off duty. The latter is at Chicago.

[illegible], car builder in the Pittsburg shops, has gone to the world's fair to spend a week or two.

Assistant Trainmaster P. M. Gibson, who is stationed at Chicago, spent Sunday with his family in the city.

William Seymour has returned to his home in Columbia City after a week's pleasant visit with Fort Wayne friends.

Michael Connors, foreman of engine house No. 2, has as his guests [illegible] and James Hurdo, of Ontario, Iowa.

Pearl [illegible], messenger boy in Superintendent C. D. Law's office, has returned from a week's visit to the world's fair.

Machinist W. O. [illegible], of the Pittsburg shops, has returned from Delphos, Ohio, and this morning resumed work in the shops.

Conductor and Mrs. J. P. Kickley, and their children, left this morning for Chicago, where they will spend a week at the fair.

Frank Calmes, foreman of the erecting gang in the Pittsburg machine shop, has returned from a week's outing at Rome City.

John Henry Sweeney, clerk in Superintendent C. D. Law's office has returned from Delphi, Ind., where he was visiting relatives.

R. M. McCracken, of the Louisville, St. Louis and Texas railroad, spent Sunday in the city, leaving for his home in Louisville this morning.

This morning W. H. Noble, of the Pittsburg machine shop, after laying off a few days to entertain visiting relatives, returned to his work.

A locomotive engineer can tell by the sound alone when anything is out of order. He becomes so familiar with the ordinary noises that so long as they are sounding in his ear he knows everything is all right, but the moment a bolt gets loose, or any part of the machine goes wrong, the noise changes and he at once looks for difficulty.

At 8 o'clock this morning the Olds wagon train left over the Pittsburg road for the west. The train consisted of nineteen Chicago, Burlington and Quincy cars, all handsomely decorated with national bunting and flags, and each car heavily loaded with wagons. The train will run direct to [illegible], where it will be divided, one section going to the northwest and the other southwest. The train was in charge of Conductor B. Elliott, with Engineer A. J. Ford at the throttle.

The funeral of George T. Cockburn occurred at Logansport at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The deceased was assistant master mechanic of the Pennsylvania shops, holding that position continuously for twenty six years. He was known by many of the Fort Wayne mechanics, some of whom have worked in the Logansport shops, and all who knew him say he was a most estimable foreman and friend. Mr. Cockburn died suddenly of apoplexy last Thursday night.

The employes at the shops of the Mackey lines in Princeton are quite indignant over the turn matters have taken. These are new shops, and most of the men employed in them have, at considerable expense, moved to Princeton, and, on the very eve of reaching there, the shops are partially shut down, and a cut down of 10 per cent. in wages for the hours worked has been ordered. Master Mechanic Lupe is laboring with the men to have them accept the reduction and do the best they can until times improve.

The Ladies.

The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies may use the California liquid laxative Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, makes it their favorite remedy. To get the true and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., printed near the bottom of the package.

NOVEL ENTERPRISES.

The linen industry of Ireland gives employment to upward of 100,000 persons, and has an estimated capital invested of $15,000,000.

There are now between 13,000 and 14,000 miles of telephone circuits in the metropolitan area of London, a region covering about 500 square miles.

Dr. Koeppen, in his "Annals of Marine Hydrography and Meteorology," published by the observatory of Hamburg, details the effects upon waves of the sea of different sorts of oil, and comes to the conclusion that soap produces still far superior effects.

Wax figures are slowly disappearing as advertising agencies. The cheap tailors use figures of wire with heads of plaster and paper mache, and the cheap dentists have taken in some of their horrible heads, with staring eyes and teeth that were gnashed by machinery.

Among the large shipments of bones from Mexico to the United States recently made for fertilizing and sugar refining purposes, were ten car loads of human bones, said to have been obtained from ancient mounds in Southern Mexico, but more probably gathered from various old and abandoned cemeteries.

A manufactory of gun and tinder-box flints is still operated in England, at Brandon, on the borders of Suffolk and Norfolk, where the flint industry has been carried on with no material change in the methods of mining and shaping the flints since the stone age. Most of the gun flints are exported to Zanzibar and other African ports and the tinder-box flints go to [illegible] districts in Spain and Italy.

A recent invention converts waste paper into kegs, barrels and vessels of various kinds. Even racing boats are made from it.

HAS A DIAGNOSING WATCH.

An Old Woman Plying a Good Trade Among the Credulous.

There is an old woman in [illegible] named Mrs. Schwartz [illegible] whose patients are the envy of all the doctors of the place. She's the only one of her kind. The result of her success is due to the possession of a diagnosing watch. This is her own construction after years of labor and at a large cost of money. The watch has been made so as to possess the principle of anatomy that she has discovered. The right hand, it appears, is possessed of five veins; in the left hand there are seven. The mechanism of the watch is so delicately adjusted that placed on the wrist it is affected by each one of these veins. A disturbance in any one of these veins, if the watch is placed on the wrist, is pointed out by the hand on the watch. Such disturbance indicates some disease or trouble in the vein affected. The disease thus identified, it is treated with lotions of the old woman's manufacture. There is no doubt this old lady, who is an educated woman with several learned diplomas from the old country, is afraid to talk. Her method is to rub the affected part with a lotion and say: "In so many days this or that will be." All the evidence goes to show that she is remarkably successful. Physicians who have taken note of this say that it is merely an example of the power of suggestion and but another remarkable example of the mental vagaries so conspicuous in the art of healing in this last decade of the century.

PERFECTLY LEGAL.

But It Was Likely to Be Deceptive Upon Poor Mary Jane.

A young man who probably belonged to the class known as "hired men" among farmers called on a Detroit lawyer the other day and bargained for "advice" for $2. Then he laid down three silver dollars and said:

"Spose I put $3 in a savings bank?"

"Well?"

"Then I take a pencil and put 0 after the figger 3?"

"Well?"

"Would it be agin the law?"

"No, not unless you tried to draw the $30."

"But I'm not going to try to. I probably shan't even ask for the $3."

"What's the object?"

"Girl out my way. I love her. She partly accepts. She'd accept altogether if she thought I had lots of money."

"And you'll show her the bank book?"

"I will."

"But after your marriage, what then? How'll you ever explain?"

"Easy as grease. Just tell her that the bank has busted, and that we must live for each other alone. Law can't tech me, eh?"

"No."

"Good day! Got the $3 in the bank now, and here goes to add the cipher! Mary Jane, thou art my own sweet whippoorwill, and I'll bet a penful of hogs agin an ox-yoke thou art!"

THE CHAMPION SNORER.

Unearthly Sounds That Can Be Heard a Distance of 500 Yards.

The central portion of Atlanta for the past few weeks has been greatly disturbed and alarmed by the hideous sounds of what was supposed to be some wild animal that was making nightly visits.

These unearthly sounds actually brought consternation and fear to the older and more thoughtful people, while those of nervous temperament were thrown into spasmodic fits. Small children woke with frightful fits of screaming and refused to be quieted. The bravest and most stout-hearted men dared not go out and investigate. These distressing sounds were varied from the screaming of a tomcat to the braying of a mule and concluded with a growl very much resembling that of an angry tigress, while at other times it took the sound of a hungry, roaring lion.

The whole thing remained a profound mystery until a few nights ago, Dr. J. L. Turner, while out on a professional call, passed through the immediate vicinity of this disturbance and discovered that these unearthly sounds proceeded from a certain boarding house and were caused by a new occupant of said house, who is now best known as the champion snorer of the world. The doctor states on oath that these sounds could be heard distinctly for 500 yards, and had it not been for a freight train running in just at that time he thinks they might have been heard a mile.

The large, rough man from the mountains, with a pot of money on his person, was resting comfortably in an easy chair at the Auditorium in Chicago lazily watching the "help" tidying up the writing room. "So," he said to the menial, "you call this hotel the Auditorium, do you?" "Yes, sir." "And you call one of them show buildings at the fair grounds the Spectatorium?" "Yes, sir." "Well," and he stretched himself out a little farther, "s'posn you shove one of them expectoratoriums over this way—I want to take a chaw of the weed."

Curious Courting.

The Zaparos, a tribe of South America, have a curious way of courting. The lovestricken young man goes out hunting, and, on his return, throws his game at the feet of the young lady who has smitten him together with a sufficient quantity of fuel to cook it. If she takes up the game, lights a fire, and commences to cook it, he knows his suit is accepted, but, if not he turns away, a sadder if not a wiser man.

How to Cure Cholera Infantum.

Pointville, Burlington County, N. J., July 17, 1893.—Our baby, now fourteen months old, was taken with every symptom of cholera infantum. I commenced using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after the first few doses he was relieved, and at this writing is as well as ever. I feel that I can not speak too highly in its praise.—Mrs. Wm. E. Roon. For sale by druggists.

Smoke the Red Cross 5c cigar. 21 [illegible]

"These land companies don't know their business," said Smooth. "Why so?" "Why, they go and give free excursions into the suburbs and half the people that go don't buy lots. I'd fix 'em." "How?" "I'd take the crowd out, you understand. But coming home, I wouldn't let a mother's son board the train unless he had a contract for a lot. That'd fix 'em, I guess."

ANTIQUES AT THE ALTAR.

The Old Gentleman Was Spry and the Lady Old but Willing.

An old colored man with snow white locks, but whose form was erect as that of an Indian in the prime of life, entered the San Francisco marriage license office, and stated that he wanted a license.

"For whom?" asked Mr. Haley, thinking, of course, that the old gentleman was kindly attending to the matter for some young relative.

"For myself," replied the visitor.

"For yourself?" ejaculated the deputy, scarcely able to believe his ears.

"Yes," said the applicant, adding with a whimsical smile, "Didn't I appear old enough to get married?"

"Well, I should think so," replied Mr. Haley, in the tone of one just recovering from a fainting fit.

"How old are you, anyhow?" inquired the clerk a moment later.

"Just 85," replied the visitor.

"And the lady?"

"She's 84, too."

Again was young Mr. Haley paralyzed, but he managed to recover himself sufficiently to inquire the names of the parties.

"My name," said the white headed gentleman of color, "is Moses Andrew Jackson, and the lady is Mrs. Caroline Shelton."

"She is a widow, then?"

"Oh, yes, and she's got children and grandchildren. They don't like the idea of her marrying me, either," he added frankly, continuing, however, with a proud grin, "but then you see, she's of age, and doesn't have to ask their permission."

Moses Andrew Jackson procured his license.

An Epidemic of Dysentery.

In September, 1892, dysentery in a very severe form prevailed at Jamestown, N. Y. Walter Willard, a well known merchant of the place, procured a supply of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says, "It is certainly one of the best things ever made, and has given the highest satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery." For sale by druggists.

His Host's Cigars.

The prince of Wales not long ago was one of a large house party, his host being a very well-known peer. After dinner, the royal guest, the host, and the other male visitors repaired to the billiard-room. On a table at the side were two or three boxes of cigars, and the prince was helping himself to one, when an ambitious millionaire approached him, and taking from his pocket a cigar-case, held it out to the prince, saying, "I think, sir, you will find these better." "Mr. ——," replied the prince, "if a man's dinner is good enough for me, his cigars are good enough for me." The millionaire was unexpectedly called away to town next morning on business.

A RAZOR SOUP REMEDY.

Wonders never cease, and, while poor, afflicted man is doomed to grope his way through this world of pain and affliction, they will ever and anon rise up in his pathway to teach him the wondrous efficiency of the simplest remedies over which, as it were, he has long stumbled in his vain search for relief from the ills to which flesh is heir.

Mr. R. M. George, of Cuba, Ga., has for a long time been tortured by the pangs of rheumatism. Without any perceptible relief, he had well nigh exhausted the whole pharmacopoeia of remedies, when, by some accidental turn of thought, his mind was directed to the idea of trying the effect of pickled razors and files for his tormenting malady. Accordingly he looked about his premises and picked up all the old files he could find, with here and there a razor blade. These he carefully cleaned and immersed in strong vinegar. After a few days he began taking a small amount of the black mass, which he called razor soup, with marked improvement. He kept up this line of treatment, and, so far as the rheumatism is concerned, is a well man.

A Cunning Frog.

A scientific journal tells this story of a frog's cunning. A brood of chickens was fed with moistened meal in saucers, and when the dough soured a little of it attracted large numbers of flies. An observant toad had evidently noticed this, and every day toward evening he would make his appearance in the yard, hop to a saucer, climb in and roll over and over until he was covered with meal, having done which he awaited developments. The flies, enticed by the smell, soon swarmed around the scheming batrachian, and whenever one passed within two inches or so of his nose his tongue darted out and the fly disappeared. The plan worked so well that the toad made a regular business of it.

Cornish Economy.

Some of the old Cornish miners are adepts in economy. Richard Tangye, the English engineer, in his autobiography says that compared with these peasants the farmers of New England are extravagant. One man when once asked what his daily work was replied. "Ten hours at the engine and eight at digging. The rest of the day I have to waste." Tangye states that he once saw the same old man fall into a fury of rage because a boy whom he had hired threw away a match after he had lighted a candle with it. "If ye waste my property, ye loon! Then ye will never be worth a saxpence of yer own!" he shrieked. A careful old woman lamented a stolen pie for more than forty years. The tears would come to her eyes whenever she talked of the lost dainty.

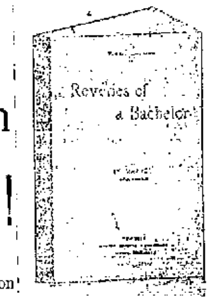
OUR NEW DEPARTURE.

Remarkable Distribution —OF— STANDARD :: BOOKS !

At Nominal Prices,

And that can only be made possible by our co-operation for the benefit of the "Sentinel" Readers.

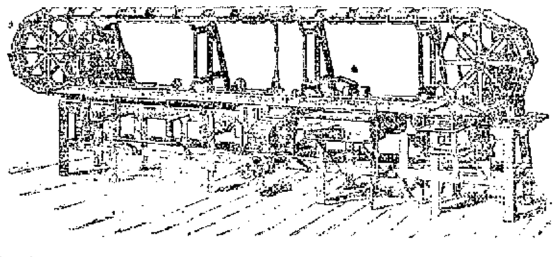


BOOKS LIKE THE ABOVE.

These Books Cannot be Obtained at Less Than the Wholesale Price in Any Other Way Than as Described Below.

WE take pleasure in announcing to our readers that we have made a contract whereby we can furnish them with standard books at absolutely less than wholesale prices. The books which we offer each week are by world famous writers and are printed from absolutely new type especially made for these works. The books are Bound by an Entirely New Process which does away with the old style of thread or wire binding. Each leaf is bound into the book separately and amalgamated with the whole, allowing the book to Lie Perfectly Flat when open, giving ease and comfort to the reader.

The following is an illustration of the new process perfect binding machine which does this work and the only machines in existence are owned and controlled by the publishers of these books.



This machine not only binds books without thread or wire but puts a cover on each book. It takes loose parts of the book and delivers the complete work, bound at a rate of 1200 an hour.

Each week we will announce a new book in the following space. If you do not care for the work mentioned, save your coupons as we will be sure to announce books which you will not fail to order. We change date each issue.

No. 16. PREMIUM LIBRARY! "STORY OF AN AFRICAN FARM." By OLIVE SCHREINER. PRICE 25c. [illegible] For Post Paid

The books which we offer are superior in every way to those offered in so called free book distribution and which are dear at any price. Our readers will see this at a glance by sending for the work offered above.

Send three Book Coupons, of different dates, and 10 cents for this book or $1.60 for all sixteen of them, and you will be delighted with our offer.

SENTINEL.

Book Coupon, Aug. 26.

Cut out three Coupons different dates (any dates as long as they are different) and send to us with ten cents and the book ordered by you will be received in a few days by mail free of expense.

The Columbia City Commercial says: "Miss Alice Hammel, who has been the guest of Miss Eva Johns, returned to her home in Fort Wayne, today.—Mrs. J. F. Shimmeman departed for Fort Wayne on the 11:19 train today for a visit of a few days with relatives."

Manager Geary announced a few days ago that the opening date of Geary's theatre would be September 4. Owing to extensive improvements the opening of the popular place of amusement has been postponed until Monday, September 11. Manager Geary will give his patrons a list of the best attractions to be seen anywhere and his efforts will be appreciated.

Paul D. Walker and Charles Tests Taylor, two newspaper men en route from Chicago to New York, on foot, arrived in this city Saturday. Mr. Walker is an artist and Mr. Taylor a writer. Both men left Chicago three weeks ago with a bull dog and twelve cents capital. They are under contract to furnish a specified number of columns for the Chicago Evening Journal and New York World.

Arrangements were perfected Saturday for the organization of a new base ball club in this city. The following players will compose the team: Batteries, McWhorter and Bush, France and Sheber. Smith, first base; Bush, second base; McWhorter third base; Baltes, shortstop; Towbridge, left field; Miller, center field; Hill right field. Mr. Harvey A. Bush will captain the team.

The phenominal success awarded Mr. Davis in his unprecedented manner of placing Uncle Tom's Cabin on the road last season, has caused him to place before the public this year a much stronger company of artists and a show of far greater magnitude—Car loads of scenery, dogs, ponies, horses, donkeys, and paraphernalia accompanying the troupe all going to make up a street parade and performance of greater proportions than ever before attempted with a dramatic performance.

The Anderson, Ind., Democrat says "Dr. J. W. Younge performed a very delicate and critical surgical operation this morning on Mr. E. L. Lewis, of Pendleton. The doctor removed a tumor from the neck of Mr. Lewis that weighed four ounces, and in its removal the carotid artery and vein were laid bare. Had the knife deviated or slipped the sixteenth part of an inch it would have been fatal to Mr. Lewis who would have bled to death in about three minutes. The operation was entirely successful in every respect.

The engagement of Mr. Frank Morris, of 2[illegible] Baker street, and Miss May Watkins, of [illegible] Melita street, is announced.

Samuel Morris of Morris, Bell, Barrett & Morris, accompanied by his daughter, returned this afternoon from Petoskey.

Mrs. Hannah Humphrey and son, Marshall, of Brackenridge street, returned home Saturday from a week's visit to the world's fair.

Superintendent Smart, of the Purdue university, who is well known in this city, is lying quite ill with typhoid fever at Charlevoix, Mich.

Mrs. H. B. Smitley, with her two daughters and little son spent Friday and Saturday with her mother at the Heaton farm south of town.

Samuel Wakel, of the Grand Rapids road at Grand Rapids, is in the city visiting his many friends and relatives. He has a three weeks vacation.

The railroad department Y. M. C. A. cottage meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the residence of William A. Ward, No. 40 Pontiac street.

Miss Josie Mantel left Saturday for Niles, Mich., to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Roeger. She will visit Chicago and the world's fair before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McDonell, of Portage, Pa., are en route to the world's fair. They are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George McBride and their cousin, Mrs. Maggie Hurly, of 334 South Calhoun street.

At the council meeting Friday evening Hon. J. B. White agreed to gravel Glasgow avenue, provided the city would furnish gravel from its pit. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Miss Christ Ulmer, of 28 Lillie street, pleasantly celebrated her birthday anniversary last Saturday evening. Those present were: Messrs and Mesdames L. Scherer, C. Scherer, J. List, J. Bastian, E. C. Rehling, Gust Ulmer, Theo Ulmer, L. Scherer, jr., W. Saalfrank, G. F. Dudenhoefer, Misses May Dudenhoefer, Clara and Emma List.

Mrs. Charles C. Brown and her daughter, Miss Alice Brown, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who have been the guests for several days at the home of Mr. William Bong on Lewis street, leave this evening for their home. Miss Brown is a teacher in the public schools at Brooklyn, and is a cultured young lady. Her mother and herself are returning from a visit at the world's fair.

Harry Wise, while riding through the country in Whitley county came across a large mica stone lying on the ground. It was too heavy for him to carry and with his father, Deputy Sheriff F. J. Wise, they afterwards rode out and brought it home. The thin layers from it are as clear as glass. How the big mica stone got where it was found is a mystery.

The Conways and the Brockways, of the south side, had a "fuss" last night. The two families are close neighbors but not close friends. The Brockways were entertaining a young lady friend last night and at a late hour the young lady fired off a pistol in the front yard, presumably in sport. This made Mrs. Conway very wrathy. She swore she would be revenged and is still looking for an opportunity to get even.

The Kindergarten, of which Miss Eleanor H. Lewis is the principal teacher, will open its seventh term in the lecture room of the large new Plymouth Congregational church on Monday morning, September 11. Miss Lewis is now in Chicago, and has been attending the conference of kindergartens in connection with the fair. It will no doubt be a larger success than ever. It is open to all children.

Yesterday a delightful picnic was given at Cressler's by Miss Edna Reuss, in honor of Amelia and Frank Renaud, of Detroit. A delightful time was had by all in attendance. Those present were: Misses Amelia Renaud, of Detroit, Velona Ubrock, Rose Fox, Kate Baker, Edith Phillips, Loretta Dreier, Rosella Baker, Grace Monahan, Marie Fox, Alma Reuss, Frank Renaud, of Detroit, Charles Mohler, Louis Eoal, Irm Noll, Tom Heidekin, and Charles Reuss.

Fully 2,500 people gathered at Williams' grove yesterday to listen to the City band's concert given under the auspices and at the expense of Col. Gart Shober of the Monday Morning Times. The music was delightful and the audience appreciative. It was the intention to give the concert with twenty pieces, including some reed instruments but owing to the short time allowed for the preparation, Mr. Shober was unable to secure the extra men and the Old City band was substituted. The audience, however was just as well pleased, and each individual present felt thankful towards the genial Times editor for the excellent program rendered.

A Young Lady Picks Up a Red Hot Poker.

Three People Thrown From a Buggy—Brakeman's Arm Badly Crushed —Other Accidents.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Bessie Weaver, living at No. [illegible] East Main street, was accidentally burned. She picked up a poker which had been in the fire and was almost at a red heat. The poker stuck to her flesh, making a painful burn.

Last night on the Nickel Plate road Charles Elmore, a well known brakeman, living at No. 322 West Main street, while making a coupling, had his left arm mashed in a frightful manner. He is under the care of Dr. Dunten.

This morning while the little daughter of Charles Waldorf, living on Erie street, was playing about a lumber pile she accidently sprained her ankle in a very severe manner. Dr. Duesling attended.

Mrs. August Fedig, of 112 South Wayne avenue, was yesterday thrown from a buggy. Her husband was also thrown out and his face slightly cut. The horse ran and demolished the vehicle.

Yesterday afternoon Bob Aurentz was driving in his surey, accompanied by his two sisters. At the corner of Main and Ewing streets he drove too near a street car and as a result the vehicle was upset and the occupants thrown out. None of them were badly hurt but their escape was a narrow one.

Miss Anna Kaiser, of 14 Allen street, this city, was found in an outhouse at No. 93 Woodlawn avenue, Chicago, in a pitiable condition. She had been suddenly seized with an epileptic fit of which she was subjected and when found was nearly at the point of death. Officer W. L. Simmons, of Woodlawn station, was called and ordered the girl removed to a hospital.

Almost Bigamy.

At a recent dinner in New York City a prominent Southern woman present remarked in the course of a conversation touching upon the famous statesman, that it was almost wicked in Charles Sumner to have married. He was so single in love with himself," she continued, "that his marriage was little short of bigamy."

SO SCIENTISTS SAY.

Nearly 300,000 pounds of aluminum were produced in this country last year.

The deepest mines in the world are the Lambert, coal, in Belgium, 3,490 feet; Birkenberg, silver, Austria, 3,250.

The ratio of insanity is greatest in Ireland, thirty-seven to 10,000; the United States comes next with thirty-three.

Dr. Tomazoli, a noted Russian physician, is about to make public what he claims to be a positive cure for leprosy. The chief ingredient in the remedy is a whey obtained from sheep.

A female codfish will lay 45,000,000 eggs during a single season. Piscatorial authorities say that were it not for the work of the natural enemies of fish they would fill all the available space in the seas, rivers and oceans.

The rate of multiplication of which germs of contagious diseases are capable is surprising. A single germ placed in favorable surroundings for growth quickly divides into two; each of these divides into two, these four into eight, and so on, the number soon reaching into the thousands, and by the end of twenty-four hours to more than 16,500,000.

The leakage of electric wires under ground, even when they are properly insulated, is enormous. It is told of an electrician who discovered by accident that a strong current was passing through his laboratory over the gas pipe and an iron waste water pipe, that he made a test and found the current to be strong enough to run a small motor, and now he gets all the power he wants free. Of course, this current is due to a leak from some one's wires.

GRAINS OF GOLD.

Satan is busiest when other people are resting.

Some cheap things are ever in good form—politeness, for instance.

The man who controls himself fights a battle that is watched from heaven.

No man should try to teach others what he does not know to be true himself.

Be still prepared for death, and death or life shall thereby be the sweeter.

No profit grows where is no pleasure taken: in brief, sir, study what you most affect.

No man would be willing to have his dearest friend know him as well as he knows himself.

No man ought to forget that if he sows wild oats he will have to reap the same kind of a crop.

We cannot conquer a necessity, but we can yield to it in such a way as to be greater than if we could.

You can generally tell where a man's heart is by watching to see what he does with his money.

True bravery is shown by performing without witnesses what one might be capable of doing before all the world.

Be modest, but not too modest. But just modest enough. The violet is so modest that everybody tramples it under foot.

I wonder why it is we are not all kinder than we are. How easily it is done! How instantaneously it acts! How infallibly it is remembered.

How He Got Sumner's Autograph.

A small boy once saw Charles Sumner's frank on a public document and, avaricious of autographs, straightway sat down and wrote to him, saying: "By the aid of Webster's unabridged, the Latin and Greek lexicons, and the assistance of my high school teacher, I have made it out to be your name. If that is so, and you can do it again please do it for me." The senator, amused by what the flippant in these days would call the gall of the youth, replied: "I am glad to learn that you have so many helps to education. It was my name. I can do it again, and here it is. Yours very truly, Charles Sumner."

The people of Bridgeport, Conn., have recently dedicated a statue of the late P. T. Barnum which is said to be a fine work of art. Mr. Barnum gave the commission for the statue during his life and with his usual shrewdness he gave it to one of the foremost of American sculptors, Thomas Ball, thus insuring what the great showman always liked, a good [illegible]

COOLIE SLAVERY IN CUBA.

The Chinese Coolie's Experience With a Brutal Taskmaster.

It is said [illegible] the condition of the negroes before the war was paradise itself. The following is related as a typical case: that of the Chinaman Tin Chin, [illegible] His head was as smooth as a billiard ball, not a vestige of hair remaining. His face was covered with long, deep scars, the sight of one eye was lost, his nose was distorted and his hands were shriveled and bony.

Inquiry resulted in learning that he had been the victim of the wrath of a notorious brutal Spanish planter. One day, three years ago, when Tin Chin and a hundred other coolies were transferring boiling sugar from the vats in pails, the planter or overseer stood at the entrance to the sugar house, whip in hand, swinging it at the bare backs of the coolies as they, bending under the weight of the boiling burden, hurried past. Tin Chin lagged a moment. The planter cut the Chinaman with the whip, and because the latter wriggled under the pain of the blow the brutal overseer grabbed up a bucket of the boiling sugar and with an oath, deliberately poured the contents down upon the head of the Chinaman. He was scalded from head to foot. He fell insensible at the feet of his tormentor, who savagely kicked the Chinaman's prostrate body aside and again took up his position at the entrance, whip in hand, ready at the slightest provocation to lay alive the next Chinaman who incurred his wrath.

That night, under cover of darkness, some of Tin Chin's countrymen carried him to his den, and there he lay for months, hovering between life and death, without medical treatment other than that which the coolies could afford him. Much rather would the planter have seen him die, for then Tin Chin's contract would die with him, and no money would have to be paid for Chin's long years of service.

A POSTMASTER WHO TUMBLED

Profited by the Fate of Those Who Had Gone Before.

It was in a far West village of about 500 people, and the postmaster was so bland and courteous when the mail came in that I felt it my duty to give him a few words of praise.

"I hev to do it—hev to do it," he whispered in reply. "Come to the door with me. D'ye see them three graves over thar?"

"Yes."

"Them's my predecessors in office—three of 'em."

"Postmasters who have died, eh?"

"Postmasters who hev been killed, sir—wiped out right here because they didn't tumble to human natur' around a postoffice!"

"You must have a special brand of human nature in this town?" I queried.

"Exactly, sir. Mebby you noticed old Bill Wheeler? He's never got a letter in his life and probably never will, but when he asks for mail I go over the whole grist and do it mighty careful, too. If I jest said, 'Nuthin' for you, Bill,' he'd out with his gun and blaze away. Did ye take notice of that one-eyed feller, Jim Hastings? Of course I know thar ain't no letter fur him, but I hev to run 'em over and inquire about his health and keep him good-natured. He shot the first postmaster here. P'aps you observed the little old woman with a bundle under her arm—John Dawson's wife? Her husband shot the second postmaster because he wouldn't open the office Sunday afternoon."

"And what was the third one shot for?"

"Got too high-toned. Uncle Tom Wallace tried to git him out of bed at midnight to see if there was a letter for him, but he backed. Uncle Tom kinder hated to shoot, but felt that he orter do it for an example."

"And do you get up nights?"

"I don't hev to. I leave the mail out here in a basket, keep a light burnin' and the door open, and if any one wants to paw the grist over he's at liberty to do it. It's the same on Sundays and I guess the folks are purty well satisfied with the way things is runnin'. Leastwise I hain't been shot at in the four months I've had the place, and I take that as a sign."

In a Circle.

"It is interesting," he said to the dyspeptic young man, "to observe the different names we have for the same thing."

"Is it?"

"Of course it is," he went on, with the persistence of the man of research. "Take 'lamb,' for instance. When it gets old it is called 'sheep.'"

"Anybody knows that."

"And the sheep, after it is killed, is called 'mutton.'"

"You're getting right around to where you started from."

"How?"

"When your mutton is cooked and served in our boarding house it becomes 'lamb' again."

Couldn't Divide.

"Do you realize," said the editor to the foreman, "that you have taken terrible chances on bringing discord into half the families of the city?"

"Why, no. What's the matter? Anything libelous?"

"No, sir. The damage is more far reaching than that of even a libel could be. I tremble to think of the number of husbands and wives you may have separated."

"How?"

"By putting the base-ball news and the fashions on the same page."

Lovely Sheep.

There is a young married couple in Chicago who are recovering from their first quarrel. It wasn't a bad quarrel, but the bride became quite snarly for a time. They were out in the country and she gazed over the green fields in delight until a herd of small animals caught her eyes, which, by the way, are rather short-sighted. "Oh," she cried, "aren't they lovely? Such nice, fat sheep! Aren't they lovely sheep, dear?" "Yes, darling," responded the horrid man, "they are, but you'd have a [illegible] of a time shearing them. They are pigs."

The Supreme Court and the Turkey.

At one time a case of very trifling importance, which had well-nigh run the gauntlet of legal adjudication, came before the supreme court of Vermont. The counsel for the plaintiff was opening with the usual apologies for a frivolous suit, when the subject-matter, "to-wit, one turkey, of great value," caught the ear of Judge Chase. "Mr. Clerk," he called out, "erase that case from the docket. The supreme court of the state of Vermont does not sit here to determine the ownership of a turkey!"

A Malagasy Wedding.

A brilliant wedding was celebrated at the Malagasy capital recently, the parties to which were the son of the prime minister and the favorite niece of an ex-foreign minister. One hundred slaves owned by the bridegroom attended, dressed in picturesque livery of white and blue. The bride, a coal black negress, was arrayed in a Paris robe of great magnificence. The wedding took place in the royal chapel and was followed by a banquet and ball in a large tent on the king's grounds. The day following, in accordance with an ancient custom, the bride and bridegroom visited the queen and presented her with a piastre. The festivities continued for several days.

"Miss [illegible] of composition is charming, don't you think?"

"Fu, Bertha, that heartless monster? Captivated by her blue eyes the other day, I slipped a little affectionate note into her copybook."

"And what did he do?"

"He gave it me back with all the spelling mistakes corrected in red ink!"

THE

BOSTON STORE.

New Goods for Fall!

are arriving daily, amongst which, dress goods are as usual most prominent. The Hopsack weave is the newest and most popular fabric shown. It's English, you know, and if it is, we must give them credit for having something decidedly new and good.

We have all the qualities of Hop sacking in stock awaiting your inspection.

We are offering special inducements in towels.

We have marked all our towels at a low figure and place them on a table in the middle of the store, so that you may see at a glance the whole assortment.

We still have a large variety of Ladies Waists that we are anxious to dispose of.

We are selling them at cost, and some at less, as it is against our principal to carry goods over from one season to another.

Times may be hard, but business is good at THE BOSTON STORE, because we give the best goods for the money obtainable.
